Red Cross Drive to Start Sunday

Large Committee Ready to Canvass Town in Endeavor to Lead Entire State

The annual roll call of the Andover Red Cross begins next Sunday, with the entire squad of workers ready to again attempt to put Andover at the top of the state list in proportion to its size. The town has a population of 10,542, its percentage of memberships in the Red Cross last year being 24.58, far ahead of any other community in its class. Only two towns in the state in any class have beaten this percentage, and the Andover roll call committee hopes to outdistance these two towns this year.

The work of the Red Cross was brought home to Andover more this year than ever before, for during the flood period last March the Red Cross was very much in evidence. In addition the Red Cross district nurse, Miss Marie Campbell, made 1767 calls during the past year on

Guild to Reopen on Next Monday

Plans are being made to open the Andover Guild Community house for the season on Monday. The first week will be devoted to registration and organization of groups. The registration fee for the season from November to May will be as follows: Adults $1.00, intermediate, 75c, juniors 50c, elementary children 25c.

Membership entitles the individual to a gymnasium class and club. Classes and schedule will be announced later.

"ANDOVER'S LANDMARKS"

The entertainment on Saturday evening December 5th, at "Andover's Landmarks" will be of great interest to Andover's music-lovers. In 1874 there was presented in the Town Hall a concert as it would have been presented in 1774. Now, in the year 1936 the A.P.C. Sorority will bring to Andover a reproduction of this concert given in the same hall in 1874. When it is known that J. Everett Collins is assisting Mrs. Mervin Stevens and Miss Edith Kendall in this reproduction, the residents of Andover know the concert will more than surpass their expectations.

Expect Record Vote at Tuesday Election

Name Committees for Coming Play

The publicity and ticket committees for the Adventurers' first production coming November 13, have been organized. The publicity committee includes Mrs. Scott Paradise, Mrs. Henry Kelley, and Miss Agnes V. Dugan. The ticket committee is a committee of one, Mrs. Harry Emmons of York street, who will have entire supervision of all tickets.

The number of requests for reserve seats gives promise of a crowded house for the first public performance in Andover's new auditorium.

A Halloween party will be held tomorrow night in Mr. Holt's garage at Carlyle street by the Shawsheen Village Athletic association.

Andover will go to the polls Tuesday to vote for every position from the President down, and also to vote on two referendum questions. There is no doubt that Andover as usual will vote solidly Republican, probably far more so than four years ago when the Democratic uprising swept over the whole country. A record vote is anticipated.

The town will also probably remain in the wet column, for the margin two years ago was a very conclusive one. There has been very little interest shown in this question this year, and there probably will be no change in the town's status. The other question to come before the voters deals with whether or not the town wishes to have a contributory retirement system for town employees.

Fred Butler, county commissioner, and Gordon R. Cannon, candidate for county commissioner, are the only local names on the ballot. Butler is fighting for re-

LET'S HAVE A CHANGE ELECT PRATT TO CONGRESS

We believe it is about time that this District had a change in its representation in Congress. Our District's best interests have been sacrificed long enough for theories that benefit other sections of the country.

We endorse C. F. Nelson Pratt and urge every citizen in the Seventh Congressional District to work and vote for his election—he will protect our District and all will agree that it certainly needs it.

JEST A RALLY

Pigs and professors have been playing a very important part in the Republican campaign this year, mainly because they played such an important part in the Democratic administration. It seemed that the President wanted more professors and fewer pigs, but evidently he bought some of his professors in a poke.

At the rally in the town hall the other night both the porkers and the pedagogues were the subject of the jokes which help to take some of the monotony out of such affairs. Judge Asher, prominent Jewish jurist of Worcester, who probably received an amount of applause second only to Cabot Lodge, brought up the pig question by telling of the man who received $234,000 for not raising pigs. "Why," he said, "because of my religion I haven't raised a single pig since I was born, and I haven't got a single cent out of it."

The fellow we see wielding the gavel at town meeting committed the other joke. Fred stated (these figures may be wrong, but it's our fault and not Fred's)—Fred said that if you divided the national debt up into twenty dollar bills and laid them end to end, they would go around the world eight times. "And if you took all the professors that Roosevelt has hired to run the country and laid them end to end, it would make a damned good thing for a steamroller."

The "damned" shows that Fred believes in the teacher's oath, at least for Tugwellian professors.

LEGION POST TO INSTALL OFFICERS THIS EVENING

The annual installation of officers of the local Legion post will be held this evening in the Legion rooms, with County Vice-Commander Hines of Swampscott officiating. Stafford A. Lindsay is the new commander to be installed.

The installation will be a stag affair.

The unit is meeting on the first and third Thursdays hereafter.

Plan Evening Study Group Resumption

Strong continued interest in the Evening Study Groups for Adults held last year at Phillips academy has induced the directors of the program to announce that a series of twelve courses, for the most part new, will be given this winter, commencing Monday, January 4. As in the past two years, the groups will be conducted by members of the academy faculty, and they will be open to all men and women in Andover and neighboring towns regardless of previous education or training. Their main purpose is to bring together those who enjoy exploring new ideas and developing new hobbies in their leisure time. The courses will be wholly informal. There will be no examinations, and home study, although recommended in certain of the courses, will be voluntary. Reading lists and outlines will be provided for all who wish them.

As in previous years, a small fee will be charged for each course, the proceeds above operating expenses to be given to some town organization employed in educational or social service. In 1935 the net proceeds of $241 were donated to the Memorial Hall library of Andover to be used for the purchase of books of interest to adults, and in 1936 a gift of $50 was made to the Andover Chapter of the American Red Cross, and $285 was given to the Andover school committee to be used for pictures and other decorations in the new junior high school. These gifts have been made possible by the generous cooperation of the instructors, who have given their services without remuneration.

Previous members of the study groups will be interested in the following statistics compiled at the close of the second year of the program. In 1935, 252 persons were enrolled for a total course enrollment of 475. In 1936, 321 persons were enrolled for a total course enrollment of 500. About 33 percent of those enrolled last winter were people who were taking courses for the second successive year. And despite the severity of the season, last winter 82 people attended every meeting of every course or courses which they took. In the past two years a total of 22 courses has been given: three in history, two in literature, three in science, three in art, two in music, seven in language (including public speaking), one in biography, and one in sociology.

Missing Man's Body Found at Haggett's

The body of Thomas F. Corbett, 63, of Boehm street, Lawrence, was found in Haggett's pond last Friday afternoon. He had been reported missing from home ten days before, and Lawrence police were planning to have boy scouts comb the woods near West Andover on Saturday, for he was last seen headed in that direction along the Lawrence-Lowell railroad tracks. He had been out of work for some time, was ill and was going blind.

Robert Scobie of 119 Lowell street, caretaker of West Parish cemetery, discovered the body about 35 feet from the northwest shore, submerged in about two and a half feet of water. He went to the home of Officer Carl Stevens on High Plain road, and in response to the latter's call, Chief Dane and special officer Campbell went to the pond and pulled the body out of the water.

Teachers' Association Has First Meeting

The Andover Public School Teachers' association held its first meeting of the season at Punchard on Tuesday of this week. After a short business meeting, the members were led through winding passages, where ghosts lurked in the dim light, to the cafeteria. There the reward for the struggle through the maze was a delicious steak dinner served by Mr. Taylor, under the able direction of Miss Marshall and her corps of assistants. The attractive and unique table decorations added much to the festivity of the occasion. The "flashes" from childhood days puzzled and entertained the audience as they guessed their identity. Active games in the gymnasium completed the program, which was in charge of the junior high school teachers.

Punch and Judy Show Here Tonight

This evening at eight o'clock in the Free church parish house the church school presents Val Evans, premier artist in Punch and Judy and feats of magic. This will be Mr. Evans first appearance in Andover. He has a good reputation as an entertainer and the public's patronage is kindly solicited. The admission is reasonable and the cause a worthy one.

There will be a few Hallowe'en contests. It is the school's first annual Hallowe'en entertainment.

Local Minister Talks on Sierras

"Rambling Down the Sierras" was the subject of a talk given by Rev. Frederick B. Noss last night at the meeting of the A. P. C. sorority. Guests of the sorority were the members of the A. P. C. sorority of North Andover. Refreshments were served in charge of Mrs. Roy Dearborn.

Mr. Noss in his talk described the seven weeks of travel through the Sierras which he enjoyed with his brother the past summer. The two carried their own equipment on their backs with Norwegian packs, for a total of 425 miles, ending up in a grand climax by climbing Mt. Whitney at night and sleeping on the top. Mt. Whitney is 14,504 feet above sea level.

The two brothers camped 37 times in 35 different spots, always on the ground. They crossed eleven passes of 10,000 feet or more and traversed the main canyons of four rivers, the Tuolumne, the San Joaquin, the Kings and the Kern. They cooked their own food, part of which was fish which they caught themselves.

With a vest-pocket camera the Rev. Mr. Noss took many pictures, some of them showing places thirty miles away.

Soda Powder and Water Given Oliver Wendell Holmes as Homesickness Cure in Newman House

Old Andover Houses

"The swinging gate, the little garden plot,
The narrow yard, the rock that made its floor,
The flat, pale house, the knocker garnished door,
The small, trim parlor, neat decorous, chill,
The strange new faces, kind but grave and still."

That is the picture of what greeted a young man when he arrived as a student at the academy back in 1824. He had had a long tedious journey from Boston—long before the days of 31-minute routes—and he was a mighty homesick youngster when he walked into the Newman house, now the residence of James C. Sawyer, treasurer of the academy. In later days he could look back and laugh at his homesickness, but not so in those gloomy days of 1825. In later days, too, he could look back and write poetry about his days here in Andover, but the poetic inclinations did not display themselves during his life at Andover, save possibly for a few "cockney rhymes."

At the time of Andover's Centennial in 1878, Oliver Wendell Holmes was the school's most famous living alumnus. In 1824 however he was just another boy, and the Newman house to him "was a shallow, two-story white house . . . just at the entrance of the central village, the residence of a very worthy professor in the theological seminary (Professor Murdock)—learned, amiable, exemplary, but thought by certain experts to be a little questionable in the matter of homoianism, or some such doctrine. There was a great rock that showed its round back in the narrow front yard. It looked cold and hard; but it hinted firmness and indifference to the sentiments fast struggling to get uppermost in my youthful bosom; for I was not too old for homesickness,—who is?"

Underground Railway

The Newman house, located just below the Memorial tower, was completed in 1811, its first occupant being Deacon Newman, principal of the academy from 1795 to 1809. In 1817 Professor Murdock became the occupant, and he was followed by Professor Emerson. Just before the Civil War the latter Professor harbored many a fugitive slave escaping by the "underground railway" to Canada. Professor Egbert Smythe was the next occupant.

In 1878 the school held its Centennial, and Oliver Wendell Holmes returned to the Training-Field in front of the old Newman house. No longer homesick he read his poem, "The School Boy," as the principal feature of the observance, and in that poem he told of his days on Andover Hill, made more pleasant with the passing of time than the actual days back in 1824 when his landlady in Newman house mixed him a blue-and-white soda-powder as a cure for homesickness!

(Note—This is another in the series of articles on old Andover homes. The material in the above article was culled from articles by Dr. Claude M. Fuess printed in the Phillips Bulletin, and by Scott H. Paradise, printed in a pamphlet about Historic Andover Homes.)

November Club to Open 48th Season

The November Club will open its forty-eighth season on Monday afternoon, with a lecture by Mrs. Joseph Beals on "These Nervous Ladies." Mrs. Beals is the author of The Merry Heart and These Elder Rebels and is a member of the Boston Authors Club. This meeting is for members only and will be the occasion for welcoming new members into the Club.

Frank Lloyd Wright's Conception of Living Expressed in Gallery Exhibit

By CLARE HAYES

In connection with the lecture given at Phillips academy by Frank Lloyd Wright last Friday, a collection of photographs and drawings of buildings designed by him are being shown at the Addison gallery until November 1st. In his recent lectures, Mr. Wright has not been using illustrative materials and this collection was put together at the request of the Addison gallery. In the one room are hung photographs of two public buildings, the Unity Temple at Oak Park, Illinois, and the Larkin Building in Buffalo, (the first air-conditioned building), drawings for a group of buildings of an academic character designed for the "Taliesin Fellowship," (a school of the arts under the direction of Mr. Wright); and a sketch for a large winter resort hotel in the West, never yet built. The rest of the buildings illustrated are dwelling houses, in which it seems to me that Frank Lloyd Wright's original and complete conception of living has found its most striking expression.

Although Mr. Wright himself considers that his drawings are unsuitable for exhibition and that they do not carry well on the walls of a gallery, yet to my mind it is from the drawings, rather than the photographs that the most effective impression of the guiding principles of Mr. Wright can be derived, especially his careful relation of the lines of the buildings with the shapes of the ground to be built on. In the sketch of the hotel in the desert, the comfortable sunny rooms and balconies seem to be growing out of the rock like primitive cliff dwellings, and harmonize entirely with the ancient forms of that country. If the hotel had been built, no doubt the materials for its construction would have been the stone of the country, for Mr. Wright believes that the "Ground" of a building should be the source of the materials as well as the inspiration of its form. He abhors the taste that prompts millionaires to transport and erect, stone by stone, a French chateau or Italian villa. The architecture of a people and a country must be expressed in the ways and materials of the country, in its exterior design it must harmonize with the shapes of the landscape and in its plan it must reflect the most reasonable method of living possible. Nothing must be handed down from the past and used again merely because it has acquired a beauty through familiarity. The future of architecture in America will not be, according to Mr. Wright, in crowded cities and monstrous buildings, but in spacious groups of comfortable houses, set among sheltering trees, and built at unity with the ground rather than soaring away from it. It is in natural surroundings that men will be able to live the most natural and beautiful lives. This will be made possible by modern transportation. Mr. Wright is not only interested in the building of his houses, and the type of life which will be conducted in them, but also in the ways and means of getting there. He has no use for the "Cow paths" which lead to Andover. It is on the wide plains of the West with their straight roads, that he has built the beautiful houses with wide spreading eaves, and the massed windows to admit wide views. This type of house, built in Wright's earlier period, has been named the Prairie House. Of this type are the Robie house, in Chicago, in the very large photograph, and the Coonley house in Riverside, Illinois. The Willey House of which there are interiors shown, was built in Minneapolis in 1934, and is perhaps a recent return to the Prairie house style, with added modern European and Japanese influences. The Millard house in Pasadena, built in 1921, is to me the least attractive of the houses photographed. It is built of machine moulded concrete blocks and the repeat pattern ornamentation made possible by this method, not only seems to mar the texture, but confuse the lines of the building. The carved blocks and the vertical lines, so different from the flowing horizontal of the Prairie houses give, in the photograph, the effect of a miniature skyscraper. In the Millard house an ornamental arrangement of water forms an integral part of the plan; the Coonley house is also beautified in this way and the fantastic little "Merchant Prince" house is perched over a waterfall.

Wright frequently designed the furniture and equipment of the houses he built. The Willey House with utilitarian pantry shelves forming part of the decorative scheme of the interior, is a good example of this. A disturbing detail I find, are the shawls or rugs, carelessly draped over a modern armchair, seen in two of the interiors, one in Wright's own house. It seems a strangely artificial studio touch. But indentations in concrete blocks and Paisley shawls are, after all, only details and we must take the rough with the smooth.

The plan and the drawing of the Taliesin Fellowship building perhaps because they are on a small scale, show no disturbing detail, and the simplicity and beauty of its roofs, terraces, and vertical supports recall the Greek, a coincidence which is a little surprising. Mr. Wright professes no admiration for ancient Greek architecture as it was intended to be; he described it as a method of wooden construction done in stone by men afflicted with that incorrigible love of the past which is an obstacle to spontaneous development of a similar beauty in a different, newer age. Mr. Wright said that he took as much pleasure in the Unity Temple at Oak Park, Illinois, as in any of his work. It has stern and beautiful lines suited to its monolithic construction, and it seems as if it at least should be allowed to remain standing for a few centuries, to commemorate the beginnings of the new architecture whose most important characteristic is to grow, develop and change with the men that use it.

Last Friday night, when Mr. Wright spoke, the Phillips academy students crowded around him after the lecture and showed their acceptance of him as a man whose sphere transcends the mechanical exercise of his profession by asking him his opinion on any subject important to them such as jazz. One brighter spirit thought up the question "What will spur on American architecture in the future?" Mr. Wright immediately answered "Men like me." And it is true that he will be remembered as an inspirer, a prophet even to the manner, a shaker-out of conventions and habits, as well as by his achievements.

Cannon Is Andover's Representative Choice

Andover's lone candidate for representative in the General Court this year is Gordon R. Cannon of 54 Salem street, one of the town's prominent Republicans for many years.

Mr. Cannon was born in Lawrence in 1883 and received his early education in the Lawrence grammar schools. His family moved to Andover in 1897 at which time Mr. Cannon began his studies at Phillips academy.

In 1902-1903 he was out west, and returned to enter business with his father at Cannon's Commercial college in Lawrence. In 1905 and 1906 he was in New York city as an accountant. Later he returned to his father's business. He has had considerable experience in different lines of business.

Gordon R. Cannon

He has been an election official for a number of years, having served as varden in old Precinct four and new Precinct six for six to eight years. Last April he was elected with Fred Butler delegate to the state Republican convention, receiving a handsome vote. In this race he was stacked up against several of the town's well-known office-holders.

He is a member of the South church and was scoutmaster of troop three there for five years. He is a past master of St. Matthew's Lodge, Past Illustrious Master of Lawrence Council and Past Commander of Bethany Commandery.

He is married and lives with his wife and one son, now in the junior high, at 54 Salem street.

Republican Candidates Speak at Rally

The town hall was packed Tuesday night as the entire Republican state ticket came here to address the local Republicans. By far the most popular of all the speakers was Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., youthful opponent to the veteran politician James M. Curley for the senatorship. When he stepped on the stage, he was given a tumultuous welcome and several times during his brief talk the crowd interrupted with prolonged applause. When he left the hall, the audience was still applauding wildly for the young man who all over the state has been striking the public fancy in a way which no candidate for public office has done for years.

John Haigis and Leverett Saltonstall, candidates for governor and lieutenant governor, also were well received, and the audience was enthusiastic all the way down the line. Senator Warren K. Austin of Vermont spoke for Governor Landon for president, and Judge Asher of Worcester, substituting for Felix Forte, attorney-general candidate, gave a stirring appeal for Mr. Haigis.

The Vermont Senator opened the rally by denouncing Mr. Roosevelt, stating that if he were re-elected, it would be regarded as an endorsement of policies which will reduce this country to the standards of Europe and Asia, where even minute personal questions are controlled by absolute authority. He spoke of the processing taxes which take money from New England and give it to Texas and other states. Hitting the N.R.A., he said that the Blue Eagle represented the breaking down of the barrier we had erected between ourselves and the government.

"Next Senator Only 34"

Mr. Lodge was introduced by Chairman Roy E. Hardy who stated that the only criticism the opponents had found was his age, but he reminded the audience that the great Democrat Thomas Jefferson, at 33 wrote the Constitution, Andrew Jackson became senator at 30, and the next senator from Massachusetts will be 34.

The young man said that he was willing to be judged on his record, and also willing that his opponent should be judged on his. He said that the committee in the state legislature of which he is chairman has enacted more humanitarian legislation in one year than any committee in any year. Then he showed two samples of cotton cloth, one from Japan and one from the United States, stating that he wants to protect the American home market for the American working men. He wants to support Old Age pensions on as generous a scale as possible, and he wants a permanent peace policy. On unemployment relief he said that when money is appropriated for human need, it should be distributed where the need is greatest. He mentioned that it averaged $75 per person in Arizona and only $29 per person in Massachusetts.

William E. Hurley, former postmaster of Boston, now a candidate for state treasurer, spoke against planned economy. He warned that Farley will be back in November if Roosevelt is re-elected and will start building up for 1940.

Bayard Tuckerman, candidate for governor's council, said Curley has controlled the state by controlling the council; he said that Mr. Hennessey, present incumbent, did what the big boss told him to.

Pratt Speaks

C. F. Nelson Pratt, candidate for Congressman, said he wanted to give Andover the type of representation it deserves. The cost of food has increased 50 percent, he said, mentioning that his opponent voted for the A.A.A. He claimed that one of the Governor's henchmen had offered him a $3500 per year position good for three years, but he refused.

Leverett Saltonstall, candidate for lieutenant governor, said that Haigis and Lodge would give service for all the people of the whole state all the time, and they would eliminate many things the Democrats would like to forget, such as paying a man five dollars a day plus expenses to count the elm trees on Cape Cod.

Judge Asher of Worcester said that Andover's share in the federal deficit is two million dollars. Later he mentioned the inspectors who are being paid $4,000 a year for going around to C.C.C. camps to see if the boys like pie with or without ice cream. He warned that if the President were re-elected he would have the power to make over the Supreme court, and in this way one man would have power over 138,000,000 people. He concluded with a stirring tribute to John Haigis, who he said would restore efficiency, decency and honesty to the state government.

The gubernatorial candidate said that he wants to clean out starting in January. He will start on the political employees with high salaries and he would free the commonwealth from incompetence. His opponent he said is part of the machine, and cannot, will not make changes. The Department of Public Works is to be subject to a severe overhauling if Mr. Haigis is elected. The state house will no longer be a political club house, he said.

Candidate for register of probate Alfred W. Ingalls mentioned his twelve years in the legislature, and stated that his opponent is attempting to be "non-partisan," a Democrat in a Republican district who is afraid he's going to lose out to a Republican.

County commissioner Fred Butler mentioned all the mills in Lawrence which had been torn down or were idle mainly because of Japanese imports which the first two months this year were 24 million yards as against a total for the whole year two years ago of only 1,700,000 yards.

Secretary of State Frederick W. Cook said that it would be his duty to inaugurate the next governor, and he felt that when he nominated John W. Haigis, the prayer "God Save the Commonwealth" would be answered. He urged everybody to get out and vote, saying that there were 1300 registered voters in Andover who didn't go to the polls two years ago. He then went over the Republican slate which is a united slate this year, and he urged the voters to vote the slate all the way through.

Robert Mitchell, candidate for county commissioner, urged the voters to be sure to vote for two for county commissioner. He said that if another Democrat were elected, Andover would lose its chance of being separated from South Lawrence in the redistricting.

Frank Babcock, candidate for state senator, told of his fourteen years in the public service, part as postmaster, part as representative. He told of his record in the last session of the state legislature, in which he steadfastly opposed the wild spending of the governor.

Gordon R. Cannon, candidate for representative from this district, told of the way in which Andover had lost her representation ten years ago, and of his efforts to secure an Andover man to run for representative. He himself was finally asked to run, and since he did not circulate nomination papers prior to the primaries, his campaign was late in starting. He pledged himself to serve the entire district unselfishly and faithfully.

Russell A. Wood, candidate for state auditor, said that the Republicans are aggressive now, and he urged the voters to be sure to get out and vote.

Life is just perverse enough to punish those who operate on the basis of letting the morrow take care of itself.

PRACTICAL MAN, NOT A THEORIST, NEEDED IN THE WHITE HOUSE TODAY

Tuesday is election day—not just another election day, but a very important one, perhaps the most important one since the turning of the century. On Tuesday you have your say; it's your day, the day in which you have the right to hire or fire men for public office. If you do not exercise that right, it's not the officeholder's fault if things do not go the way you want—it's nobody's fault but your own. You have your chance Tuesday to say what you think of the men in office and of the men who aspire to office; it's a real privilege given to you, a privilege which in other countries can be secured only by force. No matter what the weather, no matter how many other things you may have to do, be sure to vote Tuesday, for directly or indirectly the man who is elected to office Tuesday is going to have some form of control over your life.

And it's that control over your life which should determine for whom you are going to vote. Do you want a man as President whose son openly admits that his father is planning to change the Constitution in order to legalize the Blue Eagle which controlled our lives a few years back, or do you want a man who intends to see that the industry of the United States is allowed to make progress without having the government restrain its every attempt to go ahead? Do you want a man who in his four years of office will have increased federal expenditures 33 percent more than the total cost of government for the 124 years from Washington to Wilson, or do you want a man whose record in his own state shows that he considers a balanced budget a prime requisite for the conduct of government? Do you want a man who has added fourteen billions to the national debt, or do you want a man who believes in the "pay-as-you-go" policy rather than passing on a huge burden for the taxpayers of the next fifty years to pay?

Do you want a man who promised to relieve unemployment, but who in four years has seemed unable to cut down the total of ten million unemployed? Do you want a man who heckled business and hampered it with payroll taxes and continued uncertainty, thus making it impossible for business to hire back the men who worked there before? Do you want a man under whom 19 million people have gone on relief in a centralized system that has been replete with waste and fraud? Do you want a man under whose leadership five million, four hundred thousand dollars were sunk in a useless Florida ditch, now abandoned, and seven million dollars thrown away on the Maine Quoddy project, also now abandoned with its 1200 homes and 3000 workers?

Do you want a man under whose theory of economy the United States' imports of crude foodstuffs rose 41 percent and the imports of manufactured foodstuffs rose 49 percent, while wheat exports dropped 99 percent, lard exports 82 percent and cotton exports 33 percent? Do you want a man who thinks he's helping American business recovery that way?

Do you want a man who will promise to reduce the number of federal bureaus and instead will add 56 new ones, abolishing only the Bureau of Efficiency? Do you want a man who promises to cut down the federal payroll tax burden, and instead adds 250,000 employees at an annual cost of $500,000,000?

And we could go on and on and on. But the answer is so obvious. We don't want that kind of a man in the White House for four years, and that is why on next Tuesday the United States is going to elect Alfred M. Landon president—a man whose very practical business experience has taught him to shun theorists, a man who won't spend wildly, a man who won't make the prices of our food go sky-high, a man who will help you get your old job back, a man who, in short, will put this country back on a sane basis once again after the four most irrational years this country has ever seen.

CANNON AND LANE

This year, we hope, will be the last in which Andover is paired up with South Lawrence for purposes of representation at the State House. For ten years now Andover hasn't had a local representative in the General court, and in the coming redistricting this virtual disfranchisement should be remedied by the County Commissioners.

This year the Republican party is putting forth Gordon R. Cannon, an Andover resident, for representative. The voters of Andover, regardless of party, should support Mr. Cannon, for local Democrats and Republicans alike have the same interests as far as Andover is concerned. Both parties want Andover represented by at least one Andover man, and the election of Gordon Cannon will make that possible.

There is little doubt of course that Representative Thomas J. Lane will be re-elected to the other position. Although a South Lawrence man he has conscientiously tried to do for Andover what an Andover man would do, and for that reason support from this town would be an excellent way of expressing our appreciation for his work.

FAREWELL TO JAMES

If Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., and James Michael Curley, Sr., were to stand on a platform together so that all the voters in Massachusetts could see them side by side, the only votes that James would get next Tuesday would be his own, his family's and a few poor pols who have been tucked under the Curley wing for the past few years—and even their consciences might get the better of them.

Lodge came to Andover last Tuesday night and the minute he stepped on that platform he was given an ovation that hasn't been equalled here for years. And it's been the same all over the state. A fine, clean-cut likable fellow, he has attracted much favorable comment everywhere, not only from Republicans but from Democrats, too. He's a real find; the Republican party couldn't have picked a better candidate to wipe every trace of Curleyism out of Bay State officialdom.

THOSE TWO QUESTIONS

Again this year the voters are being asked to answer several questions on the ballot dealing with public policy. The first three questions concern liquor licensing, and fortunately the questions are prefaced with a brief explanation telling what a "Yes" and a "No" vote would mean. If the voters of Andover don't want liquor sold here in any form, they should vote "No" on all three questions, and if they want the present status of liquor to continue they should vote "Yes" on all three. The first question deals with all liquors, the second with light liquors, and the third with package stores selling all liquors not to be drunk on the premises. If Andover votes "No" on one and three, but "Yes" on two, light liquors only may be sold for consumption on or off the premises. If the town votes "No" on the first two, but "Yes" on the third liquor may be sold in package stores for consumption off the premises only. If the vote is "No" on question one and "Yes" on the other two, it legalizes the sale of light liquors in either form and the sale of hard liquors in packages only.

The other question should never have appeared on a ballot, because voters do not know the ramifications of the bill which it seeks to legalize. Nearly thirty pages are taken in the law book on this particular bill, and yet the ballot sums it up in one brief question in which appear such vague statements as "Certain other changes." The average voter cannot bother to look up all these legal details and technicalities. Briefly the question is whether or not Andover will accept the contributory retirement system for town employees, whereby all town employees would be forced to pay a certain amount out of their salaries into a general fund out of which they would be retired on part pay at 65. It would seem that employees who have steady jobs as town employees do should not be forced to invest part of their money the way someone else wants them to; they should be allowed to take out their own insurance in the forms they wish and at the rate they wish to pay. No one should be forced by anyone other than himself to give part of his pay to any fund; if he wants to, all right, but if he doesn't want to, no statute should make him dig down into his pocketbook.

JOIN!

The annual Red Cross drive starts Sunday. More than ever this year Andover should give its full support to the roll-call, for last spring we were shown right in our own town what the Red Cross does in case of emergency. Similar work is being done by the Red Cross everywhere whenever there is a disaster of any kind, and now that this has been brought home to us, let us say "Thank you" to the American Red Cross by making our membership 100 percent this year.

Siftings

Another thing against Curley: Goodwin's for him.

It is significant that Armistice day comes AFTER election day.

Wonder if the Statue of Liberty had her tongue in her cheek when President Roosevelt spoke at her fiftieth anniversary Wednesday?

"Andover is one of the few towns in the state in which there is not one political advertisement posted anywhere. However, Andover has probably heard about the election."—Boston Globe. Yes, we can take their signs off, but we can't make them sign off.

Andover District to Hold Fall Meeting

The fall meeting of the Andover District of the Women's Department of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society will be held in the Lawrence Street church, Lawrence, next Thursday, November 5.

The morning session will open at 10.30 and a luncheon at fifty cents a plate will be served during the noon hour.

FIRE RECORD

A still alarm shortly after noon Tuesday called the department out to a fire in the machine of William Stewart of Brechin terrace, parked in front of the Tyer Rubber company. Little damage resulted.

Early Tuesday afternoon Box 43 summoned the department to a fire in the basement of the barn on the Jerome W. Cross estate. Damage was slight.

Yesterday morning the department answered a call for a fire on Prospect Hill road. A shed belonging to J. Fred Bourne-man was destroyed. An overheated stove is believed to be the cause.

TO PREACH ARMISTICE SERVICE

Rev. Leslie Glenn of Christ Church, Cambridge, will be the preacher at the annual Armistice service to be held by the British War Veterans at Christ Church, November 8, at four o'clock.

Weddings

Reason—Elder

At an afternoon ceremony at St. Patrick's church, Lawrence, last Sunday, Miss Davina Y. Elder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Elder of 71 Stevens street, and Arthur W. Reason, son of Maurice J. Reason, 376A South Broadway, Lawrence, were united in marriage by Rev. Fr. Francis J. Scully.

Green was the choice of both the bride and her bridesmaid, Miss Lillian N. Elder. The bride's gown was of emerald green velvet in princess style, her accessories being in harmony. Her sister's frock was of forest green velvet with accessories in harmony. The bride carried an arm bouquet of yellow tea roses, and the bridesmaid carried pink roses.

The best man was Walter J. Reason, brother of the bridegroom.

A reception followed at the bridegroom's home. In the early evening the couple left on a wedding trip to New York city and Washington, D. C., on the completion of which they will live at 113 Dorchester street, Lawrence.

Bisset—Hoar

Miss Mary T. Hoar, daughter of Robert T. Hoar of 80 Lynn street, Lawrence and Drummond Bisset, son of Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Bisset of 98 North Main street, were married on Thursday evening, October 22, in St. Patrick's church, with Rev. Fr. Francis J. Scully officiating.

The bride's gown was of peach chiffon velvet and her accessories were in harmony. Her maid of honor, Miss Irene J. Hoar, wore Nile green chiffon velvet with accessories to match. Both carried Talisman roses.

Joseph Barton of this town was best man.

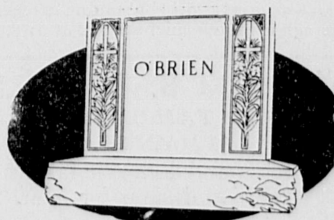

Following a reception at the home of the bride's father, the couple left on a wedding trip to New York. They will reside at 80 Lynn street, Lawrence.

Cyr—Welch

At a quiet ceremony held Wednesday evening at St. Augustine's church, Miss Dorothy M. Welch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Welch of 58 Summer street and Charles E. Cyr, son of Mrs. Louise Cyr of 10 Prospect street, North Andover, were united in marriage, with Rev. Henry B. Smith, O.S.A., officiating.

Miss Charlotte Cyr, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor, and the best man was Frederick J. Welch, brother of the bride. Ushering were Dr. William A. Fleming, Frank A. Welch, Augustine Burke, and Francis Boyle, the latter two of Lawrence and North Andover respectively.

Both the bride and her attendant were gownned in green, the bride wearing bottle green and Miss Cyr a lighter green velvet.

In Memoriam

SARA POOR—A TRIBUTE

Sara Poor united with the South Church in 1895. For over forty years she was a faithful attendant and took her place in the interests of the church and performed faithfully her part. She was a visitor in the Home Department of the church and in 1904 was chosen secretary of that Department. She conscientiously carried on her duties in that capacity until failing health caused her to resign in 1929. As long as she was able, her interest in the Department continued.

We who knew her and worked with her will carry pleasant memories of her life among us. The following poem by J. Danson Smith tells of the joys which are now her own.

"THERE!"

"No shadows There! They joyfully behold Him!"

No cloud to dim their vision of His Face!

No jarring note to mar the holy rapture, The perfect bliss of that most holy place.

"No burdens There! These all are gone forever!"

No weary nights, no long or dragging days;

No sighings There, or secret, silent longings,

For all is now unutterable praise.

"No sorrows There! no sadness and no weeping!"

Tears wiped away—all radiant now each face;

Music and song, in happy holy blending, Fill all the courts of that sweet resting-place."

Honor Miss Swift at Tree Ceremony

The memory of Miss Kate Swift, former member of the D.A.R., was honored yesterday afternoon when the Old North Chapter planted a tree as a memorial to her in the park near the old South church. A D.A.R. marker was placed near it. Mrs. George M. Coe, regent, was in charge.

The program included: prayer and remarks by Rev. Charles W. Henry; planting of tree by Mrs. Coe; acceptance of tree by Howell F. Shepard, chairman of the board of selectmen; address by Ethel Lane Hersey, state vice-regent of the Massachusetts D.A.R.; remarks by Mrs. Arthur Hollister, regent of the Betsy Ross chapter of Lawrence.

Between forty and fifty members and friends of the D.A.R. were present to pay honor to the memory of Miss Swift.

Abbot Academy Notes

The faculty reception will be held at Abbot academy on Friday evening of this week. It is expected that there will be a large attendance of parents and friends who are interested to meet both the new and older members of the staff.

A trip to Wayside Inn and Lexington and Concord has been planned for this Saturday.

On Saturday evening there will be a Hallowe'en party which promises to be very appropriate to the season. There will be an original play written by five members of the senior class as well as the traditional games of Hallowe'en.

The Abbot Christian association will be in charge of the vesper services on Sunday evening. It is planned to give this organization complete charge of the vesper

Submarine Hero to Speak Thursday

Commander Edward Ellsberg, possessor of the Distinguished Service Medal for the salvaging of the S-51 and later the hero of the salvaging of the S-4, will speak at George Washington hall on Thursday evening at 8.15 on "The Balance of Power in the Mediterranean," under the auspices of the Society of Inquiry. All townspeople are cordially invited, there being no admission charge.

It was under Commander Ellsberg that the local superintendent of the Board of Public Works, Charles T. Gilliard, worked after his graduation from M. I. T. Following the salvaging of the S-51 the Commander retired, later being sworn in as a naval reservist for duty on the S-4. The well-known officer, engineer, inventor and lecturer, has just returned from a three months' trip to Europe, and the coming lecture is a result of that visit. He is the author of "Spanish Ingots," "On the Bottom," "Thirty Fathoms Deep" and a group of other books.

The lecture will deal with Gibraltar, Malta, Alexandria—the bases from which the British navy has operated to keep a stranglehold on the Mediterranean, to menace every nation fronting that sea, to tie together the British Islands, Egypt, India and the Far East. Is Britain's grip on this ocean slipping, a new alignment of nations rising round this ancient center of our civilization? Insurrection in Palestine, independence in Egypt, revolution in Spain, the open flouting of Britain's naval power by Italy—what do these recent events indicate for the balance of power in the Mediterranean and the peace of the world?

EDITORIAL—FOOTBALL

Last September when the new school opened, once again the boys looked forward to getting out on the field and throwing the pigskin around.

Other years only a few boys could take part in football. One reason for this was that some did not have the right equipment, and another was that the boys who could not play as well as others were not given an opportunity. This year Mr. Dunn arranged a plan so that every boy in the school could take active part in football. Eight teams were formed. Boys who did not have the right equipment could play boys who were not as skilled in the sport.

Our game of football was not like the regular game, for it was played with six men to a side and the player had to tag his man with both hands. In this way nobody got hurt, and everybody had a chance to play. It taught the boys good sportsmanship and everybody enjoyed it. At the end of the season the winning teams received numerals.

Then the boys who wanted to play tackle were divided into two groups, and the best eleven fellows of each group were picked to play a real game of football. In this way no one who wanted to play got left out of the game this season. The ruling factor was good sportsmanship—the ability to be a good winner and an equally good loser.—BENJAMIN FORBES

GOLDS DEFEAT BLUES

7-6 IN EXCITING GAME

On Wednesday afternoon the Golds defeated the Blues 7 to 6 before about 350 spectators. Mr. Dunn coached the Blues and Mr. Blanchard the Golds.

Herbert Muller made a touchdown for the Blues, but they did not get the point. W. Deyermund made the touchdown for the Golds and Forbes took it around the end for the point. Mr. Sherman was referee, Mr. Dimlich head linesman, and Bob Hackney umpire. Herbert Muller and Herbert Stuck acted as captains.

F. Yancy, E. Brucato, and H. Muller were outstanding for the Blues, while W. Deyermund, A. Bradish, and B. Forbes did well for the Golds.

The line-ups: Golds, B. Jenkins, l.e.; Renny, l.t.; Campbell, l.g.; H. Stuck, c. H. Brennan, r.g.; Gaudet, r.t.; R. Anderson, r.e.; W. Deyermund, q.b.; A. Bradish, l.h.b.; N. Whitaker, r.h.b.; and B. Forbes, f.b.

Blues, F. Yancy, l.e.; R. MacMackin, l.t.; J. Mudge, l.g.; E. Brucato, c.; R. Rapisardi, r.g.; J. Collins, r.t.; H. Bishop, r.e.; H. Miller, q.b.; P. Brucato, l.h.b.; J. Skea, r.h.b.; and G. Brown, f.b.

Other boys who turned out for the game were R. Anderson, D. Joy, B. Cole, C. Sawyer, J. Payne, G. Elliot, T. Davies, F. Goebel, T. Dunn, Dray, White, H. Proctor, N. Ross, R. Nunez, J. Collins, R. Burnham, S. Moss, Redbell, and Hazelton.

On Tuesday the members of the Golds reported to the field to have their picture taken. This picture is to be put on display in the lower corridor.—BEN FORBES

BOYS' SOCCER

The final teams are now playing soccer. Team 6 won the amateur's soccer tournament. The captain was Ben Forbes, and the other players were Carmichael, Twombly, Goebel, Townsend, Flanagan, Cole, Bolton, Hendrick, McMahon, Cassidy, Simmers, Davies, and Proctor.

Some of the outstanding players this year are D. Duke who played on team 5, John Collins who played on team 2, Mudge of team 3, John Skea of team 5, and Bradish of team 2.

On Monday afternoon a fine game was played in soccer between the Blues and the Golds. The Blues: J. Skea, captain; P. Brucato, R. Burnham, E. Brucato, G. Brown, H. Bishop, A. Coleman, F. Yancy, N. Ross, D. Duke, H. Duke, and A. Hamilton.

The Golds: W. Deyermund, captain; E. Brennan, W. Renny, F. Donovan, R. Anderson, A. Bradish, L. Cleary, B. Cole, A. Lynch, W. Flanagan, and Donald Burns.

With W. Deyermund and A. Bradish playing a good game for the Golds, and J. Skea and G. Brown pushing for the Blues, the score resulted in a tie 0-0. All players showed fine spirit and excellent cooperation.

GIRLS' SOCCER

A very interesting soccer game was played between the Seniors and the Eighth Grade girls on Thursday, October 22. The players are as follows: Betty Carter, Jeanette Deyermund, Helen Addison, Florence Connolly, Ruth Hackney, Mary Simone, Roberta Brickett, Martina Higgins, Agnes Martinson, Jo McNulty and Helen Beer.

The Eighth Grade girls are: Doris Rutter, Doris Manthorne, Lillian Lovely, Edith Dunnells, Dorothy Souter, Marjorie Dean, Dorothy Campbell, Helen Stott, Marjorie Miller, Katherine Valentine, Constance Swenson, Janet Carter, Jeanette Batcheller and Theresa Whalen.—PEGGY ADDISON

FIELD HOCKEY

All junior high school girls that are interested in attending the game scheduled to be played November 14 at the Wellesley college field are asked to notify Miss Trott. The two teams playing are the Boston Field Hockey club vs. the Irish team. This team is to represent foreign countries. Admission will be 25 cents. Student Government tickets will not be accepted, as the game is not being played in Andover.—DOROTHY BARNET

MAKING GYM EQUIPMENT

New equipment for the gymnasium is being made in the manual training department. At present material for shuffle board is being made. There will be four dozen discs and two dozen sticks. Just when the tournament will start is not known.—JOHN SWEENEY

BASKETBALL

Two basketball teams have been formed already. They are the Wild Cats with John Skea, F. Yancy, G. Brown, A. Bradish, R. MacMackin, N. Ross, Warren Deyermund and W. Boucher and the Bald Eagles with D. Boynton, A. Coleman, E. Brucato, H. Stuck, W. Renny, J. Mudge, R. Flanagan, and B. Holt.—BENJAMIN COLE

ELECT TRAFFIC OFFICERS

At the student government meeting Monday traffic officers were chosen by the president and vice-president of the school. The captain of the squad is N. Whitaker. The first lieutenant is J. Fiske who takes charge of the ninth grade floor. The second lieutenants are C. Stowers and E. Porter of the eighth and seventh grade floors respectively. The other members of the squad are: R. MacMackin, E. Dunnells, W. Lewis, M. Brother, P. Buss, J. Skea, and B. Gahm.—PHILIP TOOHEY

ARTHUR BAGLEY, RADIO

HEALTH EXPERT, SPEAKS

Last Friday the pupils of the Andover Junior High were entertained by Arthur Bagley, who gave a lecture on "Playing for Dear Life."

He was introduced by Mr. Hamblin who remarked that Mr. Bagley was entirely qualified to speak on this subject as he has been a teacher of physical education and has broadcast morning exercises over the radio for almost ten years.

Mr. Bagley compared one's life to the wonderful building at Madison Square Garden, New York, explaining that the light at the top stood for the achievement one strives for.

He stated that he hoped all the boys and girls were out playing hard and fair on the field instead of sitting on the benches.

This was the first time that the entire student bodies of both schools have come together. The junior high was invited to this lecture by the high school.—JANET CARTER

FIRE-PREVENTION ASSEMBLY

On Wednesday, the 21st, the members of 9-2 gave an assembly entitled "The Trial of Fire" which they were unable to hold during Fire Prevention Week.

The scene took place in a courtroom where the various causes of fires were tried. Each testified that he was helpless, and attributed the cause of fires to one of the greatest of all evils, Carelessness. Then Carelessness was brought before the judge and was proved guilty of causing the majority of fires in the United States. He was soon "A Man without a Country" as he was banished from this country, never to return again.

William Ferguson deserves much praise for the manner in which he played the role of judge, and McCarthy was equally as good as the clerk of the court.—FREDERICK McDUFFIE

ELECT OFFICERS

The officers elected for the Advance Yarn club are: President, Marjorie Dean; vice-president, Barbara MacLellan, and secretary, Carol Reading.

The officers elected for the Boys' Sports for Girls are: President, Mary Greenwood; vice-president, Isabelle Dobbie, and secretary, Margaret Cargill.—MARION FOYE

START BOYS' SPORT CLUB

Another new club known as the Boys' Sport Club, has been started. It is under the direction of Miss Trott. Officers elected at the last meeting are: President, Peter Brucato; vice-president, Edward Brucato; secretary, Stephen Morse; treasurer, Fred Rapisardi.

A special meeting of the foot correction class was called Monday during Utility period. A foot specialist was present and took impressions of the boys' feet. Mr. Dunn read an article about the care of feet.—JOSEPH PAYNE

NOTES

Last Thursday Miss Atkinson and Miss Robinson went into the Boston Public Library for a Round Table of Children's Librarians.—VIRGINIA KEARN

We have had very good co-operation for Red Cross money this year. $11.15 was turned in.—PAULINE MACMACKIN

The eighth and ninth grades have attended the Art Gallery recently. The eighth grade went to view the permanent collection of Colonial art in connection with their study of Colonial history.

The ninth grade went as a part of their community survey and made a general tour of the gallery.—WARREN L. RICHARDSON

This week being Girl Scout Week, many of our girls are appearing in uniform throughout the building.

BOOK CLUB

The Book club of the Andover Junior high school is directed by Miss Stephan. She is having her club members write biographies, outside of school. In club period they are reading a book called "Helen Keller."

The members of this club are as follows: Helen Brickett, Dorothy Souter, secretary; Catherine Jowett, president; Barbara Porter, Mary Regan, Eileen West, Gordon Grant, Robert Wood, Harold Bishop, Joseph McCarthy, Jacob Jacobson, Donald Burns.

DEBATING CLUB

Mr. Dimlich has the Debating club. He plans to have debates about his class, starting next week.

The officers that have been chosen for this club are as follows: President, Norman Whittaker; vice-president, Robert Anderson; secretary, Warren Deyermund.

THE LIBRARY CLUB

We all like books so under the sponsorship of Miss Atkinson, a library club was formed a few years ago. That library club started from a few shelves built by Mr. Gahan with the help of a few boys in room three in the old Stowe school. But today we have a new big library where there are school librarians in charge every period. The Library club is a great help to those who belong. The members are: B. Gahm, A. Grieco, D. Christie, E. Houston, G. Field, J. Hardy, C. Hell, J. McCarthy, A. Hathaway, N. Boyce, J. Mudge, J. Fisk, E. Doherty, E. Rafton.

From Onion, Vt., to Andover by Way of South America and China Is Town Clerk's Path of Life

Our town clerk, George H. Winslow, spends most of his time now working in the luxurious quarters at our town house, but it wasn't so long ago that he spent most of his time almost anywhere, from China to Onion (English for the Indian name, Winooski).

Onion is up in Vermont, or let's call it by its less pungent name, Winooski, and it was there that George started on a career which took him eventually to New York city, Central America, South America, the Orient and a hitherto-unknown place called Shawsheen village. Graduating from Lowell Textile in 1910 he was shortly thereafter sent by the American Woolen company to the Burlington mills up in Winooski, a big little mill town between Burlington and Fort Ethan Allen. The Tenth U. S. Cavalry, the noted negro troop which went over San Juan hill with Teddy Roosevelt, was at the Fort at that time, frequently entertaining the people of Winooski.

George was born down in Norwood on June 23, 1889, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Henry Winslow who recently observed their golden wedding anniversary at the Winslow home on Lowell street. He graduated in 1907 from the Norwood high school, and then went on to Lowell Textile.

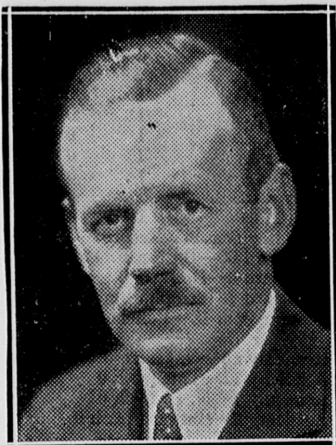

After Winooski, George went to New York city where he served a brief apprenticeship in the American Woolen sales department prior to covering the territory in upstate New York and the middlewest. Shifted to the export department he was sent to open up several offices in Central and South America and in the Orient, in the period around 1916-19. The buyers there however bought only in small lots as compared to the large-sized orders purchased by the big ready-made suit houses of the United States, and the nature of the demand was difficult for mills doing large-scale production to meet. Mr. Winslow was sent to Lawrence to assemble and prepare woollens for export to satisfy the small-lot demand, but in 1919 the company gave up direct exporting.

Frye Becomes Shawsheen

Frye village was still Frye village in those days, but it didn't remain Frye village long. George was made the general manager of the Homestead association, the real estate subsidiary of the Woolen company, and in that capacity he had charge of building, renting and maintaining in the neighborhood of 300 houses, of which nearly 30 were old houses remodelled and in many cases moved from one place to another.

Office-holding runs in the family. The elder Mr. Winslow was tree warden down in Norwood for several years, and the elder Mrs. Winslow was a member of the Norwood school board for ten years.

George here in Andover has served two years on the finance committee, six years on the Board of Public Works and six years as town clerk. His present term will expire in 1939. The past few years he has been re-elected with comparative ease, but back in 1932 it was tough sledding, for the results gave him but a three-vote margin over his opponent. A recount was held of course, and those four days in between the election and the recount must have been terrible, not only for the fellow who had the margin and hoped he wouldn't lose it but also for the fellow who was three votes behind and hoped to make it up. It's bad enough when you're close to another candidate with just another precinct to hear from, but when you have to wait four days, it must be pretty nearly unbearable. Votes did shift in that recount, but when it was all over the net result was the same, and George was once again town clerk. Nothing approaching that situation has ever happened since.

Being town clerk and running for town clerk is no snap, for the weeks before the election find the town clerk the busiest of the year, with registrations, warrants, town meeting affairs, and a million other things. In fact he's so busy straightening out the troubles of the other candidates that he has little time in which to straighten out his own.

Much Hunting, Little Shooting

We asked George what his hours were, and he said they were unlimited—he is on call at all times, like a doctor, or a newspaperman. At his home he even keeps a supply of blanks for burial permits, licenses, etc., because of the many requests made of him at all hours. The odd hours prevent him from participating much in his favorite avocation, hunting. He hasn't been able to do any hunting as yet, because when you arrive home from work at 12.50 a.m. you're in no mood to get up at 4.30 to go looking for fox.

But the Winslow family does share in the hunting honors around here, for the first fox this year was caught by Mr. Winslow's father, now 74 years old. George keeps a couple of fox-hounds which he exercises frequently; in fact, he "does mostly hunting, very little shooting."

George was married on April 6, 1914, and the couple has two children, Mary and Mrs. Warren Harrington. In September Ida May Harrington, the first grandchild, arrived.

(Note: This is another in a series of articles on Andover residents appearing regularly in the Townsman.)

County Lawyers Endorse Shanahan

As an illustration of the sentiment among Essex county's judges and lawyers, more than 350 of whom have endorsed him for re-election, Register of Probate William F. Shanahan called attention in speeches last night to a statement recently made by Attorney Augustus B. Tolman of Lynn, a lifelong Republican.

"I have had much business in the Probate Court at Salem for the last 35 years, frequently several times a week, and I think I know something about its practice," Mr. Tolman stated. "There have been four registers of probate, two Republicans and two Democrats—including Mr. Shanahan—during that time. Mr. Shanahan, like his Democratic and Republican predecessors, has been strictly non-partisan. He treats everybody with courtesy and is unusually accommodating and efficient. He deserves re-election on his own merits."

Register Shanahan maintained that leaders of the county bar agree with the veteran Lynn attorney that, although the register's duties are not judicial functions, the office is nevertheless an important part of the administration of justice. The manner in which the register of probate handles his office is necessarily a material factor in inducing respect, or the reverse, in the administration of the court, he declared.

HOLD HALLOWE'EN PARTY

The Past Presidents association to the Ladies' auxiliary, O. S. C., held a Halloween party recently at the home of Mrs. Alexina Guthrie, Red Spring road. The home was attractively decorated in Halloween colors. Games and stunts were played and prizes awarded the winners.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Guthrie assisted by Mrs. Lily Harris. The following members were present: Mrs. Alex Valentine, Mrs. George Gordon, Mrs. Thomas Neil, Mrs. George Carmichael, Mrs. Alex Bertram, Mrs. Alex Meek, Mrs. Thomas Gorrie, Mrs. Hugh McLay, Mrs. David Forbes, Mrs. Lily Harris and Mrs. Alexina Guthrie.

MRS. THOMPSON SUBSTITUTE FOR RED CROSS NURSE

During the absence of the Red Cross district nurse, Miss Marie Campbell, Mrs. Elma Thompson will substitute in her place. Mrs. Thompson may be reached daily except Wednesday afternoon and Sundays at the Andover Guild, telephone 554, between 8.30 and 9.30 a.m. and 1.30 and 2.30 p.m. Calls for her services outside of these hours may be left at the Guild.

Bowdoin Fresh Team Plays Academy Tomorrow Afternoon

The Bowdoin Fresh football team comes here tomorrow to play the academy team in what should be a breather for the P. A. boys. The team from Brunswick has played but one game to date, having lost to Hebron 13 to 0. The program of Freshman football as conducted at Bowdoin college calls for only three practice sessions weekly, and the coach finds it difficult to assemble any sort of team work.

Next week the academy team will meet Tufts fresh in the final preliminary game before the Exeter encounter which will be played here this year.

Coach Ray Shepard will probably start the same line-up tomorrow as he did last week with the possible exception of having Williams at quarter instead of Lawton and Seymour at full for Kausel.

The Bowdoin line-up will be: l.e., Denham; l.t., Loeman; l.g., Thwing; c., Webster; r.g., Howard; r.t., Bass; r.e., Griffith; q.b., Dale; l.h.b., Pope; r.h.b., Legate; f.b., Huey.

ANDOVER 0—TABOR 0

Still unbeaten and still unscored on the Academy soccer team played the second scoreless tie in a row Saturday against Tabor at Marion.

Sports Schedule

TOMORROW

Football—Bowdoin fresh at academy, 2 p.m.

Manning high at Punchard, 2 p.m.

Soccer—Harvard fresh at Andover.

SUNDAY

Soccer—Lowell Lisbons at Andover, 2.30 p.m.

Football—Andover A. A. at Exeter Bears.

Academy Goal-line Not Yet Crossed

Continuing the brand of play that has seen N. H. fresh, Yale fresh and N. U. fresh go down to scoreless defeats and displaying new power in off-tackle smashes, the Phillips academy team kept its goal-line uncrossed last Saturday as Harvard fresh was added to the list of non-scoring visitors.

The Crimson's one bright spot was Torb MacDonald, flashy star here last year. MacDonald was a one-man team. His passing was excellent, his punting superb, and the many fine runbacks of punts struck terror to the Andover rooters as tackle after tackle sprawled uselessly on the ground. On two occasions through Torb's passes, Harvard came within the Andover five-yard line but could come no further.

Johnnie Murphy scored for Andover at the start of the second half. He gathered in a kick on his own 30, advanced it to the 50, and then to the 40. Anderson gained 20. Three bucks netted only two yards, and then Johnnie skirted the end for an 18-yard touchdown.

Strong Manning Team to Meet Punchard

Punchard high will meet a formidable foe tomorrow afternoon at the local playstead in the Manning high team of Ipswich. The visitors have lost but one game, that being to Danvers by the narrow margin of 7 to 6. Punchard defeated Danvers by 6 to 0.

The Ipswich aggregation opened the season with a scoreless tie with Gloucester. The next week Reading was taken into camp 6 to 0, and a week later the Portsmouth, N. H. team went down 13 to 6. After the Danvers loss, Manning next defeated Brewer, Maine, 6 to 0.

The starting line-up for the visitors will be: l.e., Prisby 8; l.t., Cowles 1; l.g., Gibbs 11; c., Co-captain Roberts 3; r.g., Retales 12; r.t., Scourletis 2; r.e., Wedgryn 7; q.b., co-captain Mourikas 6; l.h.b., Paganis 10; r.h.b., Georgeopoulos 9; f.b., Nikas 5.

DEFEATED AT NEEDHAM

Playing their best game of the season, the Andover A. A. football team went down to a 6-0 defeat at Needham last Sunday afternoon. It was a hard-fought game, with many penalties being inflicted. Bill Skea and Bill Tammany sustained spine injuries and Les Hilton received an injury to his shoulder.

ANDOVER SOCCER TEAM IN SCORELESS TIE AT LOWELL

About 1500 soccer fans witnessed one of the fastest and best games of soccer that has been played in the Merrimack Valley League Sunday at the Lowell Common when Andover engaged in a scoreless tie with the Lowell Lisbons.

The local boys missed many good opportunities in the game. Rapose of the up-river city made many spectacular saves.

Andover is scheduled to play the same team Sunday on the Andover Playstead at 2:30 p.m.

The club has entered the State Cup Competition again this year. The State Association is expected to draw up the schedule next Tuesday.

Punchard Loses to Framingham

Forward pass interceptions were responsible Saturday for Punchard's first defeat of the year with Framingham high emerging the victors 13 to 7 at Framingham. Both Framingham scores were made after Punchard passes had been intercepted, the first on the Framingham 35 and the second on the Punchard 28.

Sakovitz was the interceptor in both cases. On the first one he ran after the interception to Punchard's 23, Gibson staying off the touchdown momentarily by tackling from the rear. On the next play Hobin ran around right end for the score. Sakovitz followed up his interception the second time with a pass to Hobin, bringing the ball to the 10. A few plays later Sakovitz fumbled, recovered, slid off tackle for the winning touchdown.

Lynch was the first scorer, counting from the two yard line after a barrage of passes had advanced the ball from midfield. Lynch scored the extra point.

Andover A. A. to Play at Exeter

The Andover A.A. Football team will play the Exeter Bears of Exeter, N. H. this Sunday at Exeter. The team coached by Milton C. Blanchard and captained by Hilton looks forward to a real victory. The Exeter team will play here the following Sunday, November 8th.

Alfred W. Ingalls Confident of Victory

Alfred W. Ingalls, of Lynn, candidate for Register of Probate, has made, single-handed, one of the cleanest and most aggressive campaigns of the year. He has continuously visited and spoken in every city and town in the county for the past four months. He has at all times shown a great interest in the success of the party, and has in almost every speech he has made, since the primary, in which he polled a very flattering vote, devoted a part of his limited time to sound and intelligent reasons why other Republican candidates, particularly those for county and legislative posts, should receive the united support of the party.

Mr. Ingalls' record in the Legislature was that of a consistently loyal Republican, and he has shown himself to be one of the ablest and most tireless campaigners on the ticket. He is confident of being elected by a handsome majority, and reclaiming the position of Register of Probate for the Republican Party. He feels that he will be able to protect Republican employees in the Registry.

LOSES SHIRTS

Some shirts belonging to Joseph Shimkonis, caretaker of the Andover country club, were stolen in a break made at the club Sunday evening. Entrance was gained by breaking a window which permitted the thief or thieves to gain access to the upper part of the club.

The lockers were also ransacked but nothing taken. Entrance had been gained through a locker room window.

BITTEN BY DOG

Adrian Groleau, 15, of Corbett street reported to police Wednesday that he had been bitten by a dog. He was treated by Dr. Blake for five teeth marks on his legs. There is some doubt as to whose dog did the biting.

Herald Editorial Endorses Pratt

The following editorial endorsing the candidacy of C. F. Nelson Pratt for Congress appeared Monday morning in the Boston Herald:

Encouraging as a symptom of impending change in local politics is the accumulating evidence in the Seventh Congressional district that both liberal and conservative citizens do not contemplate the continuance much longer of William Connery's services in the House. A man cannot be all things to all men for long and get away with it.

The people of the Lynn district are waking up to the fact that if the business of the district is to be retained, they had better get a Congressman who will help keep it there. Mr. Connery is for so many things that he heads in all directions at once. During his terms as Congressman, there has been an acceleration in the removal of plants from the district. There are fewer shoe, mill and electrical workers. The district needs protection, not only against foreign competition, but from those crackpot theories represented by Connery which are just as devastating in their effect on business and real jobs.

C. Nelson Pratt is probably as liberal a candidate as the Republicans ever put up. He is supported by Sinclair Weeks and the state committee, as well as by thousands of independents in the district. Mr. Pratt, is worth watching. A man of the people himself, he is fighting to help put the district back on its feet.

B. S. A. Committee Selects Officers

The 1935 slate of officers of the Andover District of the Boy Scouts was re-elected at the annual meeting held Wednesday night. The more important officials include: chairman, Dr. Nathaniel Stowers; treasurer, Edward A. Anderson; commissioner, F. Tyler Carlton; assistant district commissioners, Robert Meadowcroft and Stanley Pratt.

Robert Hatten, Clare Norton and Tyler Carlton were named a committee of three to plan for a public entertainment for the benefit of the boys in the Christmas vacation. Mr. Norton, of Troop 4 at the Baptist church, was given permission to sell coffee, hot dogs and light refreshments at the Scout Cabin on Prospect hill during the winter sports season.

Commissioner Carlton reported that there were approximately 110 scouts enrolled at present, with troops at Shawshen, Free church, South church, Baptist church, Christ church and Ballardvale.

To Enlarge Police Department's Office

The town hall offices were rearranged this week but there is still more to be done. An endeavor has been made to make the town clerk's office look larger by the tearing down of the partition which formerly separated the clerk from the selectmen's room.

The beaver board partition between the former office of the tax collector and the chief of police office is to be torn down to give the chief more room.

THE SHIP-BUILDING CLUB

The Ship Building club under the direction of Mr. Sherman, the principal, consists of the following members: Robert Flanagan, William Flanagan, Hubert Stuck, Donald Joy, John Humphreys, Clifford Stowers and Gibson Brown. They plan to build ship models and visit various places where ship models are on display. Later on they will probably visit the Navy yards to look over real ships.

DRAMATIC CLUB MEMBERS

The officers elected for the Dramatic club are: President, Priscilla Moss and secretary, Ruth Porter. The treasurer of the costume and scenery department of the Dramatic club is William Renny. The campaign managers are Glenna Draper and Ralph Manning.—MARION FOYE

LATIN CLUB

One of the new clubs to be formed for the first time this year was the R.P.Q.R. club (the Latin club). This club hopes to enrich the cultural background of the students and to show them how modern civilization is indebted to the Romans. Stories on the Roman ideals of conduct are to be read, and there will be picture lessons on sculpture, architecture, dress, and customs of the Romans. English plays with Roman settings may be discussed and perhaps a few scenes could be acted. There will be a consideration of common Latin phrases and terms; talks on Latin derivatives; translation of state mottoes, singing of Latin songs; and consideration of modern advertising which makes use of many classical names and stories.

The members of this club are: Phyllis Campbell, Secretary; Catherine Bixby, Arthur Coleman, president; Helen Gahm, Marjorie Dean, Eileen Lawson, Jean Davis, Andrew Hamilton, Barbara Gahm, Dorothy Christie, Helen Walsh, head of the program committee; Ruth Cowen, Alda Grieco, and Elinor Houston.—ROBIN NUNEZ

Polls Open 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Rep. Thomas Lane
for Re-election

Rep. Thomas J. Lane is a candidate for the position as representative to the General Court for the Sixth Essex District comprising South Lawrence and Andover.

During the time he has served in the Legislature, Rep. Lane has advanced and supported many measures of benefit to his district, the local community, and the Commonwealth. As a prime mover for better service and lower rates for the car riders on the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway, Rep. Lane succeeded in abolishing the street car service and in the establishment of bus service with more running time and better service to the car riders. Rep. Lane succeeded in not only establishing the five cent fare on the lines in his district, but on other routes in greater Lawrence.

As a member of the Legislature, Rep. Lane was appointed to the Committee on Cities, Constitutional Law, and for the past six years has been a member of the Committee on Judiciary. At the last session of the Legislature, he was appointed by Speaker of the House, Honorable Leverett Saltonstall, as the ranking Democratic member of the Special Unpaid Commission on the Investigation of the Judicial System in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. He also served as Clerk and the only Democratic member on the Special Unpaid Commission on the study of Salisbury Beach and Duxbury Beach relative to the establishment of reservations. For the past eight years, the local Representative has served as Secretary and Treasurer of the Essex County Legislators Association at the State House.

Color Facsimiles
at Local Gallery

BY CLARE HAYES

A new and very interesting experiment is being launched all over the country; that of issuing, quarterly during the year, sets of paintings by American artists, reproduced in color facsimile at a very low price. The Addison Gallery at Phillips Academy is now showing, through November 11th, a group of twelve reproductions of the work of living American artists, priced at five dollars each. They are reproduced by the best available methods and the low price would not have been possible if the production had been limited; the pictures are therefore being put out in large quantities in order to stimulate an interest in modern American painting, among a wider section of people than would otherwise have access to most of the pictures, and it was thought that the artists would be able to derive an income from the royalties on the facsimiles of their work.

Naturally the "American Pictures of the Year" are chosen to be as widely representative of different types of American painting as possible, but they all have except for two, perhaps three, a striking similarity of subject and spirit. Two exceptions are studio paintings; one is a fine study of a Roman peasant woman for a fresco; the other is a still life of objects which might be found in the studio of any artist, although Kuniyoshi, who painted this particular still life, tells us in the catalogue that each object has for him deep personal associations. (Most of the artists in the catalogue explain their own pictures in a few words, a procedure which is at once very unusual and illuminating.) These two pictures would perhaps be the most satisfactory to own, as additions to the furnishings of a house.

The remaining paintings all seem to me to have this in common, that they are concerned with rendering a scene from everyday life, and that, American life, of a homely and universal character, so that the subjects probably form part of the experience of painters and spectators alike.

It will be interesting to see which of the pictures have that universal appeal most strongly, which ones will be the best sellers. In calmer times, when decisions not as important as those involving the future of the country can be indulged in, little polls have been arranged at the Addison Galleries of the preferences of visitors for different pictures. I think opinions will be sincerer now. A man will take good care to consider whether a picture really appeals to him before he will spend five dollars on it.

I am inclined to guess that "Nosegay" by Peggy Bacon, with the endearing horse, man and dog, will be the most popular and the George Grosz of Central Park the least so.

The satirical Gropper has an intriguing resemblance to an arrangement with a child's colored blocks; there is something very pleasing in the painstaking composition and painting of the dump head landscape by Bohrod.

A SERIES OF SUNDAY

EVENING SERVICES

Beginning Sunday evening, November 8th, the Andover Baptist church will have a series of Sunday evening services running through the first Sunday of December. These will include a good "sing," special music and speakers. Other events are also planned in connection with these services. The speaker for the first service will be Rev. Mr. Crain of Ballardvale. The hour for these services will be seven o'clock.

Academy Trustee
Dies Suddenly

Thomas Cochran, a trustee of Phillips academy and donor of millions to the school, died of a heart attack yesterday at his home in Bedford Village, New York. He had been a partner in the banking firm of J. P. Morgan & Company since 1917.

Mr. Cochran graduated from Phillips academy and Yale. At Andover he was in the class of 1890 with Dr. Stearns and the present treasurer, James C. Sawyer. In 1923 he became a trustee, and it is to him probably more than any one other individual that Phillips academy owes its recent great development physically. He gave to the academy George Washington hall, the academy chapel, the bird sanctuary, and the Memorial organ. The Oliver Wendell Holmes library was a gift of his family.

Community Ass'n Formulates Plans

About forty were present at a meeting of the Ballardvale Community association in the community room Wednesday evening with William Riley, president presiding.

A progressive report was given on the Hallowe'en and costume party that is to be held Saturday.

It was voted to purchase 125 more chairs for the hall and the question of shades for windows was left over until the next meeting. The members carried a motion to purchase a curtain for the stage.

Tuckerman Prophesies Record-Breaking Vote

Bayard Tuckerman, Jr., Republican candidate for the Governor's Council, in addresses at rallies this week prophesied that the vote in the election next Tuesday would be a record-breaker for Essex

County and at the same time expressed confidence that he would be the next Governor's Councillor for the fifth district.

"Everywhere I have been this week," said Mr. Tuckerman, "large attendance and enthusiasm have marked the rallies. This is an augury of a big vote Tuesday and success for the Republican candidates."

Bringing his campaign to a close Saturday night, Mr. Tuckerman will visit groups in various sections of the county, and when his tour is finished he will have visited every one of the 32 cities and towns in the district.

In all of the cities and towns in the district, Mr. Tuckerman has loyal friends who will work for his election until the closing of the polls next Tuesday, with the feeling that Tuckerman, when he assumed his new duties in January will show the electorate of Essex county and the entire Commonwealth that he is a man who "cannot be bought, browbeaten or lulled into inaction by promises or favors."

The Shawsheen Village Athletic association will hold a Boosters' day at the Andover Playstead on Saturday, November 7, starting at two. The Lawrence Crusaders will be the opponents.

The village team has played two games, swamping the Lawrence Vikings 33-0 and tying with the Waverlys of North Andover 6 to 6.

John Collins and John Mitchell are co-captains.

ARRESTED AFTER CRASH THREE SLIGHTLY INJURED

Edward Penny of North Tewksbury was arrested on three counts Tuesday afternoon by officers Stevens and Deymond after the car which he was driving crashed into a machine operated by Murray Schuyer of Bradford on Lowell street. He was charged with drunkenness, operating under the influence and operating without a license.

Schuyer's leg and knee were hurt, and Mrs. Schuyer was shaken up. Their daughter received an injured knee and legs, and her three children were unharmed.

One Death and Six Months in Jail Result of Crash into Tree Here in Andover

Andover's Sudden Death Series

Appealing a District court's decision to a Superior court is not always a wise thing to do, as the driver involved in the crash pictured above now knows. It was Andover's first fatality of the year, taking place on March 23 during the flood period, and the driver was coming up from Somerville with a young lady to view the flood conditions in Lawrence. As he approached Phillips academy the car swung off the road, crashing into a tree seven feet off the concrete.

The young lady was dead a few minutes later. Dr. Simpson, local osteopath, was driving in that section at the time, and he administered first aid, but when the ambulance reached the hospital, she was beyond the aid of a doctor.

The driver suffered an injured knee which delayed the case for some time, and he is still lame at present, but it doesn't matter much because he's in jail. He was tried in District court for manslaughter and operating to endanger. Over there the manslaughter charge was filed and he was fined $100 on the operating to endanger charge.

But he had a smart lawyer. He knew that the Superior court might dismiss the charge, and of course it would help out his own pocketbook if the case were continued a while longer. So the driver appealed the case to the Superior court.

They did dismiss the operating to endanger charge just as the lawyer thought. But what he didn't foresee was their action in taking up the manslaughter charge and giving his client a six months' term in the House of Correction on that charge!

The moral is: $100 in a district court is better than six months in the Superior court. But more important: it's better to stay on the road than to stay in jail.

Train Held Up by Clothing Company

The 7.09 train from Boston was delayed about 35 minutes in the local station Saturday evening when the Burns Co., Inc., truck crashed into the baggage car while stopped in the station. David Burns, the driver, was injured.

Burns had driven down to meet someone, and he reported to police that the accelerator stuck, causing the truck to dash across the station platform into the car. The front end of the truck was damaged.

Local Bride-to-Be Tendered Shower

Miss Ruth Swenson, who tomorrow becomes the bride of Gardner Shaw of Ballardvale, was tendered a Hallowe'en shower last Friday evening at the home of Miss Bertha Hilton, 188 North Main street. Many gifts were received by the bride-to-be, and she opened them beneath a Hallowe'en lantern from which fell a shower of rose petals. The home was attractively decorated in Hallowe'en colors.

Games were played and refreshments enjoyed.

Those present were: Misses Annetta Anderson, Minnie Valentine, Agnes Dey-ermond, Ruth Saunders, Helen Saunders, Margaret Laurie, Emma Stevens, Lucy Stewart, Marjorie White, Bertha Cuthill, Ida Grover, Nellie Irvine, Helen Smith, Gertrude Taylor, Antoinette Thiras, Everdike Thiras, Eleanor Harden, Thelma Beck, Margaret Papp of Mattapan, Doris Shaw, Constance Swenson, Ruth Swenson, Ethel, Doris, Elizabeth and Bertha Hilton, Mrs. Walter E. Expect Record Vote at Tuesday Election

election and will probably win out along with Robert Mitchell of Haverhill, the other incumbent. In his talk at the rally the other evening, Mr. Mitchell, probably anticipating a bullet for Butler vote here in Andover, urged the voters to be sure to vote for two, for otherwise a Democrat might get in, and the board, then in control of the Democratic party, would not help Andover in the redistricting by virtue of which the town hopes to be segregated from South Lawrence next year. At present there are two representatives from this district, both Democrat and both South Lawrence. To split the district would mean one more Republican and one less Democrat in the state legislature, and a Democratic board would not want to do that.

Mr. Cannon did not run for nomination, but his name was written in on the ballot at primaries sufficiently to allow the printing of his name on the final ballot, and he has been waging an extensive fight for the election as representative from this district. The chances are that Rep. Thomas J. Lane will be overwhelmingly elected again, but Mr. Cannon has a chance for the other position.

The polls will be open from seven a.m. to seven p.m. in Andover, the polling places being the same as at the primaries save for the changing of the precinct two voters to Square and Compass hall instead of the court room. The Grange hall will be the West Andover polling place.

Vegetables Tossed All Over Roadway

The intersection of Shawsheen road and Essex street was covered with fresh vegetables Tuesday morning when the truck belonging to Hovagen Arakelian of 49 Chandler road tipped over after failing to make the turn. Arakelian was shaken up but otherwise uninjured.

Police were told that the brakes failed to hold on the Shawsheen road hill, and the truck was going too fast to make the turn.

Some of the vegetables even landed in the Shawsheen river. Most of the others were salvaged, and Arakelian continued on to Boston after securing another truck.

INJURY POSTPONES CASE

In a crash after having been arrested for operating under the influence and drunkenness, Arthur E. Orne of Stoneham was again unable to appear in District court Tuesday morning because of a fractured skull. Orne was being driven back to the police station by Officer Ray Hickey when the cruising car was hit by a truck. Orne's injuries were not considered serious at first. The case was continued until November 30.
